MARKET ACCEPTS REPORT OF MONEY COMMITTEE

Brokerage Houses View Action Taken as Constructive From Investor's Viewpoint.

EVERY QUESTION IS ANSWERED

BY BROADAN WALL.

NEW YORK, September 10.—Action of the stock market to-day bore out the opinion that the money committee's restriction on stock loans should be interpreted as constructive in every way from the investor's viewpoint. Brokerage houses, which on Monday were in the dark as to whether they could execute buying orders for customers, to-day conducted business on normal lines.

One member of the money commit-

One member of the money commit-tee, in reply to a query as to whether questions being asked by Stock Ex-change members would be answered, in a formal explanatory statement from the committee said:

"If brokers will put their pipes in their mouths and their feet on the feeder and reread carefully our statement of last week they will see that way possible question they might ask a adequately answered."

A adequately answered."

It was not until the last hour that Wall Street agreed the situation was at least moderately bullish. Traders, who went short immediately after the money committee's edict, covered, and either sat still or went long. This process was rellected strikingly in United States Steel, which in the half hour from 1:46 to 2:15 rose, on big-block transactions, from 108 to 1003-8, or some half dozen points under the level on the day the money committee tatement came out. Some conservative level on the day the money committee tatement came out. Some conservative level on the day the money committee tatement came out. Some conservative level on the day the money committee that further dips are to be expected. The street again made the money committee's statement and its probable effects the main conversational topic. While the committee has long had in mind the necessity for trimming speculative sails tan be stated that their decision was lastened by the fact that at least one house was straining seriously at its loan tether. Some other farms, it can also be stated, have been borrowing capital. One house has wrking capital pastifying loans of some $10,000,000. While another house, with even less tapital, has had outstanding as much as $25,000,000 in loans.
